This activity is jointly provided by Partners for Advancing Clinical Education and Nexus Healthcare Education, in collaboration with KDIGO.

This activity is supported by an independent educational grant from AstraZeneca.

■ Learning Objectives

- Explain how aldosterone contributes to the progression of CKD and hypertension and influences changes in eGFR slope
- Describe the clinical relevance of eGFR slope as a validated endpoint for assessing kidney function decline and treatment response
- Translate assessment and treatment insights from research programs into practical clinical decisions

■ Target Audience

This activity is intended for nephrologists and other healthcare professionals involved in the care of patients with CKD.

■ Accreditation Statement

In support of improving patient care, this activity has been planned and implemented by Partners and Nexus Healthcare Education. Partners is jointly accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education, the Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education, and the American Nurses Credentialing Center to provide continuing education for the healthcare team.
